ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY

Taking responsibility as a collective

We, IMCD South East Europe, are aware that every economic activity represents an intervention in nature and the environment. For this reason, we want to make our contribution to environmental protection and take responsibility for our economic activities, our employees, society and future generations.

Therefore, IMCD SEE undertakes to comply with existing laws, regulations, requirements of interested parties and self-commitments and, within the scope of our economic, organizational and technical possibilities, to reduce the negative effects on the environment to the possible minimum by means of well thought-out processes.

Planning and carrying out our services and business activities in the most environmentally friendly and resource-saving way possible is of great importance to us. That is why environmental protection is not only seen as a task of the company in our group, but as a concern of every single employee.

We actively promote our employees' awareness and knowledge of environmental and energy issues with the help of numerous communication and information channels. Our goal is to strengthen the environmentally conscious behavior of our employees through training and the provision of information so that sustainable action becomes a matter of course both inside and outside the company.

In addition, we are pursuing another essential environmental policy measure to reduce waste, wherein digitalization and the associated integration of software and hardware solutions play an important role. For example, we are able to reduce paper consumption to a minimum through the targeted use of innovative tools and digital filing systems.

The IMCD SEE management is committed to the continuous improvement and further development of our environmental management system. This is done by setting and evaluating strategic operational goals and performing regular optimization adjustments of our use of resources and energy.
